

Art week SUMMER 2 WEEK 3:

We are, again, going back to 1914 - the year Ernest Shackleton, his crew and The Endurance set sail from England to Antarctica. World War 1 was a few weeks away and the way of the world was about to change very dramatically; those on board this extraordinary expedition knew nothing of the war - being stuck in various parts of Antarctica for over 2 years, with no radios/phones or forms of communication, meant it was all a big shock/surprise.

Task; to draw a scene from life on the ice.....

You don't just need to rely on white crayons!! You can think of the colours of the boat (and lifeboats), sails, clothing, various equipment (like barrels, weapons/tools, boxes, maps, ropes etc).....plus your imagination!! If you want, you could make your pictures black/white (shaded) as the photos of the time had no colour.

I have included a few visuals below to get you thinking/started.....
